

Mixed effects model captures longitudinal resting heart rate for the population and individual infants

